

13 Dec. 2006

To Whom It may Concern

Dear Madam/Sir,

I have been in contact with Mr Raed Munir Shomali 2003 when he joined the department of computer information systems at King Abdullah II School for Information Technology (KASIT)- The University of Jordan. Between 2003 and 2006, I taught Mr Shomali two computer science courses, System Development and Tools and Introduction to Artificial Intelligence. Mr Shomali is expected to complete his B.SC in June 2007.

From this experience, I can report that I found Mr Shomali to be an exemplary student. Academically, he was extremely motivated, intelligent, very keen to learn and very conscientious. He is an excellent analyst and programmer, and able to apply very intelligently what he learns very quickly to real-life problems. He is the best student in the school and may be so for years to come.

As a person, Mr Shomali is very friendly, open and warm. He is highly regarded and respected by his colleagues and his lecturers.

I believe that he should have no problem pursuing further his postgraduate studies in computer science or in any related subjects.

Yours Sincerely,

Dr. Nadim Obeid
(Professor)